Improving Patient Care Transitions to Reduce Readmissions — A Multifaceted Approach

June 20, 2013 - 11:30 am - 1:00 pm

Dr. Eric Coleman, Director of the Colorado Care Transitions Program, will describe a seven-prong approach to improving quality and safety during care transitions. He will explain that there are no “quick fixes” for this aspect of health care delivery, then present a multifaceted approach that has proven to be effective and include the key steps to operationalize true patient-centered care along the continuum.

Learning Objectives:
- Identify the central goal of transitional care
- Describe the challenges hospitals face in reducing readmissions
- Identify a seven-prong approach to improving quality and safety during care transitions
- Learn the key steps to operationalize true patient-centered care
- Learn what the future holds with respect to new initiatives aimed at reducing hospital readmissions

How a Web Seminar Works
This web seminar allows you to attend and participate without leaving the office. The seminar is presented live, via the Internet. Audio for the seminar is accessed through a telephone line or through computer speakers, which will allow you to actively participate during the program. If multiple people will be listening to the program, you can listen via speaker-phone or computer sound. The slide presentation is accessed on your computer via the web. Multiple staff can participate from one location for one tuition fee. Please note that if an additional attendee connects from a different line, they will be invoiced separately.

Confirmation and Instructions
Upon receipt of payment, you will receive a confirmation e-mail and complete instructions on how to access the program.
